ASSESSMENT CONSIDERATIONS FOR FALL OF SY 2020-21

As teachers and students return to in-person learning this fall, the ability to assess student learning will play a critical role in the delivery of instruction. High quality assessment results help teachers and parents understand what students know and can do, which is particularly important in identifying and mitigating any learning gaps associated with COVID-19 disruptions.

Learning models will vary across the state this fall based on local considerations. The HDOE has developed assessment guidance for addressing the implications of different reopening scenarios that emphasizes flexibility while maintaining standardized administration to obtain valid and reliable student data.

FALL ASSESSMENTS

THINKING ABOUT ADMINISTRATION?

IN-PERSON

Test groups of students over different testing dates?

Test in smaller groups and/or more locations?

Available for all of the fall assessments, but may require more time & trained staff. Plan accordingly.

Learn More

No matter the approach that a school chooses, stakeholders must work through the implications to make sure that assessments remain secure, all students have the opportunity to participate, and the results are valid and useful for the intended purpose.

View our guidance here for more details on each fall assessment.

REMOTE

Administer remotely?

Available for the interims, and the screener for provisional English Learners. Not available for EOC Exams or The ACT.

Before administering remotely, consider...

Your purpose

Remote administration is more appropriate for an assessment designed to inform instruction rather than a high stakes assessment.

How to include all students

All students must have an opportunity to participate, which requires appropriate technology and accessibility features.

Test Security

Remote administration requires careful planning to make sure test items and personally identifiable information (PII) are not compromised.

TEST ADMINISTRATION CONSIDERATIONS IN THE FALL OF SCHOOL YEAR 2020-2021

Refer to the Hawaii Return to Learn: School Reopening Plan

If all students are attending school in person...

Scenario 1 in the Hawaii DOH Guidance for Schools COVID-19

Provide more space than normal to make sure students can participate while remaining socially distant. Take additional time to disinfect surfaces prior to and after a test administration. If needed, identify additional physical locations and trained test administrators to ensure all students can comfortably - and securely - participate. Also, take advantage of the entire test window or multiple testing dates. Anticipate having groups of students testing over a longer period of time than in previous years.

If students are both attending school and learning from home on staggered schedules...

Scenario 2 in the Hawaii DOH Guidance for Schools COVID-19

In addition to the Category 1 guidance, provide more time to administer the assessment than in the past to accommodate the limited time with students physically in attendance. When scheduling in-person assessments, pay attention to student schedules to make sure all students have the opportunity to participate. Some of the fall assessments also offer a remote administration option. However, be aware that remote administration is not always appropriate and includes its own set of considerations (see below).

If all students are learning from home...

Scenario 3 in the Hawaii DOH Guidance for Schools COVID-19

Remote administration has been made available for several fall assessments. When considering a remote test administration, carefully review the specific assessment guidance and test security protocols to ensure a standardized test administration that truly supports the goal of collecting valid and reliable student data.

- The Fall EOC Exams are not available for remote administration
- The Smarter Balanced interim assessments are available for remote administration. This option is available automatically with the appropriate software. See the Guide to Remotely Administering Interim Assessments for specific guidance and additional information.
- The standard WIDA screeners for provisional English learners are not available remotely. However, to ensure that students have access to English language support services in times of extended school closures, the HDOE has created a process to pre-identify students for English support services using the WIDA Remote Screener. Students will still need to complete one of the formal WIDA screeners (K-WAPT or WIDA Screener) once the school opens to confirm eligibility.
- The ACT is not available remotely. Schools can register for a School Day date (or multiple dates) on which students will travel to a secure testing location to participate.

During remote administration, students need to have appropriate supports and accommodations. If schools are unable to provide the required components remotely, consider alternatives such as providing access to a testing facility or having a staff member bring the necessary resources directly to the student.

In addition, remote administration requires an emphasis on information security. Make sure the assessment approach does not compromise test items or personally-identifiable information, such as the ID students use to log in to an assessment.

Review the remote administration supplement for each assessment before proceeding.
